

SPORTS STALLINGS PLANS TO WIN SERIES IN FOUR STRAIGHT GAMES SPORTS

MACKMEN 'JUST SIT' LIKE THE OLD BAY FISHERMAN

In Enemy's Camp American League Champions Ponder Over World's Series.

NO GOAT YET DEVELOPED
Wise Ones in Baseball Believe Deal Was Born Under Lucky Star—Rumor of Many Tickets in Hands of Speculators.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
BOSTON, MASS., October 11.—On the Long Island shore of the great South Bay, not far from New York, dwells a tribe of patient and prosaic men who follow the waters of the bay for a livelihood—fishing, clam digging, hunting and guilting.

Some of these men have known no other occupation for the forty years, and their fathers and their fathers' fathers before them "followed the bay." They are, for the most part, a shrewd and weather-beaten clan, with salty eyes and striding gait, and with their knowledge of the world without is not profound.

Of one of these men a city fellow made inquiry one day.
"Why do you do in the winter?" he asked.
"You can't fish and hunt when the bay is all frozen over. What do you do then to pass away the time?"

The eyes of the bayman brightened with the glow of a pleasant retrospect.
"Why?" he said, "in the winter we stay at home and sit and think, and sometimes we just sit."

In similarwise did the Philadelphia Athletics while away a dull Sabbath in the camp of the enemy. They remained sequestered in their hotel most of the day, and sat and thought, and sometimes they just sat. The Athletics are not very demonstrative by nature. They have created no wild disturbance even had they been today as conquerors, for they are a domesticated body of young men, and their repression and restraint is always quite beautiful to behold.

They seemed more repressed and restrained than ever, and the general agitation which seems prevalent throughout the city of Boston passed over and around them, and left the Mackmen quite unmoved.

MEANS RE-REPPRESSED
ON THE other hand, the Boston Braves are by no means repressed or restrained. Neither are they sequestered. As public as the post-office, as soon as they arrive home each man remained in his rented room only long enough to snatch a few minutes of sleep, and then he moved out where all men might see and marry. They took no pains to hide the public discussions, and agreed with public opinion that it looks like a long straight.

We are referring to the Boston public, which is such a strange and peculiar mind over what happened in Philadelphia Friday and Saturday that she is reeling off haphazard statements without feeling a twinge.
"The 'Crash' of the National League" is rocking wildly in a kale of enthusiasm, and strange sights are promised when the Mackmen and the Braves take the field for their third game tomorrow afternoon.

THE WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP team two years ago, but it is doubtful if the Red Sox ever aroused as much enthusiasm as Stallings's Braves. The circumstances were different, of course. The situation of the National League and the long-drawn-out season through the last days of the season were lacking to some extent from the campaign of the Braves, but in any event the old town is all in a heavy excitement, and the hotels are packed, and it's a big night to-night, and everything up-to-date.

NO GOAT YET IN
This world's series is not a regular world's series, because, it is not a "goat" worth mentioning. A world's series must have both its heroes and its goats, and just at present we are suffering from an overplus of heroes.

Several young men have been placed in nomination for the odious office, and one or two of the candidates appear likely promising every time they get out of a baseball, but so far they have not developed sufficient desire to justify such abuse. Still, as long as the world's series is in progress and baseball players are anywhere around, there is always hope of a "goat" and, by extension, a "goat" worth mentioning.

There has been some attempt on the part of prejudiced Philadelphians to account of his part in the city of Philadelphia play over in the city of Philadelphia, which brought defeat to old man Plank, but the Buffalo boy has not been much popular as a "goat," although a few of the city men are claiming that Wallie's candidacy ruined a corking chance to elect Charley Deal by a unanimous vote.

These baseball men, who include some of the most prominent parasites of the pastime in all the land, are now, except Deal's own theft of third as a clever manoeuvre. They say it was a bit of baserunning "bone," which was turned into a fortunate circumstance by Schang, and placed the team in a position of heroism upon the brow of Deal at a moment when he was reaching for a goal of thorns.

DEAL MUST HAVE BEEN A LUCKY STAR
They argue that the substitute third baseman must have been born under a lucky star, but, then, that is true of all substitutes in a world's series. If they were not pretty lucky they would not be in a series, would they?

You will recall that Deal doubled to centre in the ninth inning yesterday afternoon. Maranville had been re-elected. It was a lucky double, because, as Frank Schang, the ball in the fierce sunlight, but it was none the less a double, and as such duly entitled to respect and consideration. With Bill James at bat, Deal took a long lead off and was so far away from the bag that he had no chance to return to that station when a pitched ball reached Schang's mitt.

In other words, Deal seemed to be in the deplorable condition commonly described in the run of baseball as "caught napping," and in the run of baseball to be "caught napping" is regarded as a considerable blunder, although we are now informed that Deal was an exhibition of great sagacity on the part of his manager, who was drawing a throw from Schang, by giving Schang the impression that he would try to regain that station, and after drawing the throw, to race on to third.

Deal has pulled this play numerous times on National League catchers during the past season, but several National League managers here present would like to have the addresses of those catchers, so they may

Estimate Attendance To-Day at 34,663

BOSTON, October 11.—The attendance at tomorrow's game between the Braves and Athletics will be approximately 34,663, and the total receipts will be about $63,000.

It was announced tonight that 15,000 reserved seats already have been sold, and that 19,000 unreserved $1 and 50-cent seats will be placed on sale tomorrow. The seats are divided as follows:

ALREADY SOLD:
1,798 box seats at $25-$50, $8,990.
4,733 grand stand seats at $2-$2.50, $11,833.
4,202 third-base stand seats at $2-$2.50, $10,505.
ON SALE TO-MORROW:
12,000 first-base stand seats at $1-$1.25, $15,000.
1,800 "Lewis ledge" seats at $1-$1.25, $2,250.
1,200 centre field seats at $1-$1.25, $1,500.
4,000 centre field seats at 50 cents-$2.00, $2,000.
Total money, $63,000.

not by any chance ever get on their teams.

Schlang had an easy play in front of him, declare those critical souls. All he had to do, they say, was to step forward and use a little discrimination in rounding up the ball. Instead, Wallie whipped the ball down to second from where he stood, and the astonished Jack Barry, who was probably not expecting a throw at that instant, made the catch. By that time Deal was almost on top of third, and Frank Baker, who was fondly anticipating an active part in expunging a caged victim, was feeling with his feet for the bag.

Barry did not throw to Baker, because it would have done no good. He had no chance to get his man. The suggestion that was made by some of the spectators, that Lord Byron, the poetical postulator of the National League, had his noble bean in line with the throw is absurd, although it is true that Byron was bustling busily about the central scene of the play.

PSYCHOLOGICAL EFFECT
GREAT ON THE ATHLETICS
The psychological effect of that little incident on the Athletics was undoubtedly enormous, but supposing Deal had been put out, as he would have been had Schang not made the throw as he did? What then? How would that have boomed up against the Boston Braves?

Several young men have been placed in nomination for the odious office, and one or two of the candidates appear likely promising every time they get out of a baseball, but so far they have not developed sufficient desire to justify such abuse. Still, as long as the world's series is in progress and baseball players are anywhere around, there is always hope of a "goat" and, by extension, a "goat" worth mentioning.

There has been some attempt on the part of prejudiced Philadelphians to account of his part in the city of Philadelphia play over in the city of Philadelphia, which brought defeat to old man Plank, but the Buffalo boy has not been much popular as a "goat," although a few of the city men are claiming that Wallie's candidacy ruined a corking chance to elect Charley Deal by a unanimous vote.

These baseball men, who include some of the most prominent parasites of the pastime in all the land, are now, except Deal's own theft of third as a clever manoeuvre. They say it was a bit of baserunning "bone," which was turned into a fortunate circumstance by Schang, and placed the team in a position of heroism upon the brow of Deal at a moment when he was reaching for a goal of thorns.

DEAL MUST HAVE BEEN A LUCKY STAR
They argue that the substitute third baseman must have been born under a lucky star, but, then, that is true of all substitutes in a world's series. If they were not pretty lucky they would not be in a series, would they?

You will recall that Deal doubled to centre in the ninth inning yesterday afternoon. Maranville had been re-elected. It was a lucky double, because, as Frank Schang, the ball in the fierce sunlight, but it was none the less a double, and as such duly entitled to respect and consideration. With Bill James at bat, Deal took a long lead off and was so far away from the bag that he had no chance to return to that station when a pitched ball reached Schang's mitt.

In other words, Deal seemed to be in the deplorable condition commonly described in the run of baseball as "caught napping," and in the run of baseball to be "caught napping" is regarded as a considerable blunder, although we are now informed that Deal was an exhibition of great sagacity on the part of his manager, who was drawing a throw from Schang, by giving Schang the impression that he would try to regain that station, and after drawing the throw, to race on to third.

Deal has pulled this play numerous times on National League catchers during the past season, but several National League managers here present would like to have the addresses of those catchers, so they may not by any chance ever get on their teams.

Schlang had an easy play in front of him, declare those critical souls. All he had to do, they say, was to step forward and use a little discrimination in rounding up the ball. Instead, Wallie whipped the ball down to second from where he stood, and the astonished Jack Barry, who was probably not expecting a throw at that instant, made the catch. By that time Deal was almost on top of third, and Frank Baker, who was fondly anticipating an active part in expunging a caged victim, was feeling with his feet for the bag.

Barry did not throw to Baker, because it would have done no good. He had no chance to get his man. The suggestion that was made by some of the spectators, that Lord Byron, the poetical postulator of the National League, had his noble bean in line with the throw is absurd, although it is true that Byron was bustling busily about the central scene of the play.

PSYCHOLOGICAL EFFECT
GREAT ON THE ATHLETICS
The psychological effect of that little incident on the Athletics was undoubtedly enormous, but supposing Deal had been put out, as he would have been had Schang not made the throw as he did? What then? How would that have boomed up against the Boston Braves?

brody made the longest hit in the history of baseball. Steve Delaney fell into the open window of a New Haven passenger train, and the train carried it all the way to Providence.

Until lately, however, the south end plant was plenty large enough to accommodate the people who wanted to see the Braves. Sometimes they would draw as many as fourteen or fifteen spectators, including passholders, but when prosperity came, as narrated, it was impossible to take care of the holders alone. So the Braves moved to Fenway Field, and it is on Fenway Field that the Athletics have taken many a trimming from the Red Sox during the past season. A hoodoo hangs over the prospects of that yard for them and for the New York Giants, for it was there that the Giants lost the world's series of 1912 through Shodgrass's historic muff, and that the Giants dropped the crucial series of the past season to the Braves.

JOE BUSH WILL LIKELY BE MACK'S SELECTION
Connie Mack will probably work Joe Bush or Bob Shawkey against the Braves to-morrow. He will probably work one of these two, because he has no objection to work, unless he elects to try inexperience in the form of Raymond Bressler, the young left-handed protégé of old man Plank's; Pennock, another youthful slide-whirler, or J. Wellington Wyckoff. Joe Bush won a game from the Giants in one series, and Shawkey is an experienced pitcher of considerable ability.

It is said that Ban Johnson, the fat president of the American League, is greatly displeased with the selection of starting Old Man Plank instead of one of the youngsters Saturday, but then Ban Johnson is usually displeased about something or other. The president of the American League being involved, Ban is greatly irritated over this series, but it is not of record that many American League managers permit Ban to pick their pitchers for them. It is even quite doubtful if Ban could tell a pitcher from a catcher at a distance of a hundred yards.

Connie Mack has assisted in establishing the prestige of the American League in recent years about as much as Ban Johnson, and most likely the banishment of the pastime will go on the league's record as a pleasure, regardless of the displeasure of Ban. No man could have pitched much better than old man Plank Saturday. It was a wise selection by Connie Mack.

SPECULATORS SAID TO HAVE PLENTY OF TICKETS
There are rumors that the speculators have acquired a large supply of tickets to the Boston games, just as they did in Philadelphia. It is true it will bring a smile to the lips of the impassive countenance of John B. Foster, secretary of the New York Giants, for last year James E. Garfield, who was the victim of an unrighteous venge on the New York club when he discovered tickets in the hands of speculators.

Later he discovered that tickets which he himself had given to friends had been sold to speculators. He was indignant, and he made public and a full apology to the New York manager, who was not at all sorry to receive it. He ate crew without relish, but he ate it, and now the ghost of the manager's face may come home to roost with him. Gradually it is being upon baseball magnates that it is impossible to elude the wily "spec" as long as there are local politics to contend with.

Shibe and his associates get all the worst of it in any way if the Braves had four as many as Gaffney's club will undoubtedly make up his deficit by next year any deficit he may suffer. Therefore, the Boston manager is anxious to see the finish as soon as possible.

ATHLETIC SUPPORTERS HOPEFUL
PHILADELPHIA, October 11.—Despite the fact that the Boston Braves have won the first game of the world's series to their credit, the Athletics fans today were covered here today at odds of 10 to 7 in favor of the Boston team. A number of bets at even money were made on the Braves to-morrow. Supporters of the Athletics, however, are confident that the team will win the series.

Neither had Philadelphia lost sight of the younger members of the Athletics' pitching staff, either Bush, hero of last year's world's series; Bressler, Shaver, or Wyckoff, local fans believe would give a good account of themselves.

BREWERS WIN TWICE FROM BIRMINGHAM
MILWAUKEE, Wis., October 11.—The past season series between the Milwaukee Southern Association champions and the Milwaukee American Association champions resulted in a tie, the Milwaukee Braves winning the latter team winning the series by scores of 10 to 2 and 3 to 0. The second game was stopped by darkness at the end of the fifth inning. Scores:

First Game. R. H. E.
Birmingham.....0 0 0 0 0 2 0—2 3 5
Milwaukee.....3 0 0 0 0 0 1 0—10 10 1
Batteries: Robertson and Traggesser; Hoyt and McGraw.

Second Game. R. H. E.
Birmingham.....0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0 0
Milwaukee.....0 0 0 0 0 0 3 3 0
Batteries: Johnson and Traggesser; Clapnick, Shackelford and McGraw.

YELLOW JACKETS HAVE HARD WEEK OF PRACTICE
Eleven Stopping Up For First Championship Test—Teaching Team New Plays.

ASHLAND, VA., October 11.—The Yellow Jackets returned to Ashland yesterday, and will go through some hard work this week to be in the first championship game. The team is scheduled to play William and Mary next Saturday at Williamsburg.

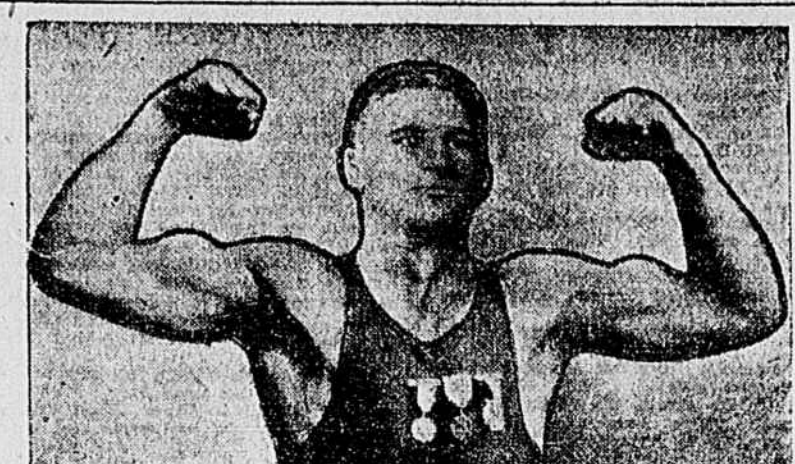

Several of the team received minor injuries yesterday, but the coach, Cliff Clapnick, Shackelford and McGraw, said that the team was in good shape again within a couple of days.

Shaffer, Cogbill and Hall showed up well yesterday. Cogbill's running back plays were creditable, while Shaffer and Hall made several long gains in the line. Bush was the star for the Yellow Jackets.

Robertson's drop-kick in yesterday's game was clean cut, and this man will be heard from in the championship game if nothing happens. Every day when Coach Reiss is showing the men how to punt Robertson, drops them consistently. Hall is developing into a drop-kicker, too, and if necessary, can be called on to lift one over the bar.

This week Coach Reiss will give the men a few new plays to work against the William and Mary team on Saturday, and most of the time will be devoted to perfecting these, but two or three short scrimmages will most likely be had.

WRESTLE FOR HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP TO-NIGHT

JACK STONE LEON, The Kentucky Hercules.

DR. M'DONOUGH WILL BE THIRD MAN ON THE MAT

Roller and Walls Agree on Local Man to Act as Referee—Other Details Arranged.

SEATTLE BANKERS TO ATTEND

Delegation from the Far Western City Will Root for Their Idol. Many Women Have Secured Reservations—Starts at 8:45 P. M.

With every detail completed and both grapplers ready, to-night's bout at the Academy of Music, which will be for the active heavyweight wrestling title, promises to be a hard-fought battle.

The referee question was settled last night, when Manager Walls and Dr. Roller met in the office of The Times-Dispatch. A number of names were offered, which were satisfactory to both parties. Out of the number Dr. M'Donough was selected, and he will be the third man on the mat to-night. In speaking of the referee, Roller made only one stipulation, and that was to have a man that the local fans had confidence in. Dr. M'Donough has acted in the capacity of referee on several occasions to the entire satisfaction of the large following of the game he was acceptable to both wrestlers.

The meeting of the sporting editor of The Times-Dispatch was selected as official timekeeper, and will keep tabs on the minutes as they pass.

Manager Walls, in connection with Roller, will request that the local police prevent betting on the result as far as it lies in their power, and it is said to say that there will be no repetition of the scenes enacted at the City Auditorium during the Lewis-Roller bout, when the hall offering men circulated around the hall offering to make wagers on the result.

A number of Seattle bankers are in the city to attend the convention which will open to-day, and to a man will be at the mat to see the wrestling. The women fans are taking more than a passing interest in the match, as shown by the advance sale of tickets. Manager Walls, of the Academy, reports that the majority of seats sold are to women, which is an indication that the audience will be a representative one as far as the fair sex is concerned.

Dr. Roller reached the city yesterday morning, and is in the pink of condition. Leon completed his workouts by taking a five-mile run over the country roads. Clothed in several big sweaters and his heavy shoes, he has been in the city since he reached the city, and the talk of the natives.

The bout is scheduled to start at 8:45 o'clock, and the grapplers will not keep the audience waiting. There being no details to arrange, the athletes will start as soon as they appear on the mat.

PINCH HITTER MAKES GOOD IN CITY SERIES

CHICAGO, October 11.—Pete Knisely, a recruit, called upon to bat in a pinch, delivered, to-day, tied the score and enabled the Chicago Nationals to defeat the Chicago Americans in the fourth game of the city series, 4 to 3. The game went ten innings.

The standing of the clubs in games won now is: Chicago Nationals, 2; Chicago Americans, 1.
R. H. E.
Americans.....0 0 0 0 1 0 0 1—1 6 2
Nationals.....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 2—1 8 2
Batteries: Cleotie and Schalk; Vaughn, Lavender and Brasnahan.

ALEXANDRIA HIGH SCHOOL NO MATCH FOR R. M. ACADEMY

FRONT ROYAL, VA., October 11.—Randolph-Macon Academy defeated Alexandria High School Saturday, 19 to 7, on the former's grounds in the fourth game of the city series. The ball contest replete with forward passes and long runs, both teams played a hard game from the start, but the hefty forwards of Randolph-Macon Academy, protected the backs in splendid style, enabling them to complete the passes and get well started on their end runs.

The whole backfield for the Academy started with King at guard and Cutler at end, doing brilliant work on the line. Alexandria's right half back was the main stay for his team. Randolph-Macon Academy plays Shenandoah Academy next Saturday and Eastern High, of Washington, the twenty-fourth.

ST. LOUIS BROWNS WIN CITY SERIES FROM CARDS

ST. LOUIS, October 11.—The St. Louis American League team to-day won the city series by defeating the Nationals, 2 to 0, in the first game of a double-header.

The second game was tied, 2 to 2, when called on account of darkness after the seventh inning. Another game will be played to-morrow, but the Browns, with four games won and one lost, have victory assured. Scores:

First Game. R. H. E.
Americans.....0 0 2 0 0 0 0—2 7 0
Nationals.....0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 1 2
Batteries: Huch, Baumgardner and Agnew; Doak and Wingo, Snyder.

Second Game. R. H. E.
Americans.....2 0 0 0 0 0 0—2 7 0
Nationals.....1 0 0 1 0 0 0—2 7 1
Batteries: Wellman and Agnew; Perdue and Snyder.

VIRGINIA WORKS OUT BEHIND CLOSED GATES

Coach Wood Arranging New Formations and Plays for Use in Game Against Georgia October 24.

WHITE HURT IN SCRIMMAGE

Golden, a Substitute, Also on Hospital List—Other Injured Players From Roundouting Into Playing Form. Stillwell, the Season's Find.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., October 11.—Virginia's football squad has been holding long work-outs behind closed gates on Lambeth Field. This probably marks the beginning of the real season here, and the inauguration of the new plays and formations which will be used in the big game with Georgia October 24.

A bright outlook is entertained by everybody at present in regard to Virginia's chances in this contest, although the Crackers are said to have one of the best teams in their history this year. The loss of McWhorter, now a student in the Virginia Law school, was a heavy blow to the Georgians, as he was their tower of strength last year, and in the Virginia-Georgia game in Atlanta did more to prevent Virginia from rolling up a big score than any two men on the Southern eleven.

However, a big influx of new material and the veterans of last season make the Crackers a team of great possibilities, and it is certain that they are coming to Charlottesville to even matters.

The most unfortunate occurrence of the past week was an injury sustained by White on Wednesday's scrimmage. On Thursday, White could not walk on account of his knee. If his injury should prove more serious than it appears at present, it would be a severe blow to the team, as for two seasons he has been the department of every game in which he has participated.

Golden, one of the best of the line substitutes, is also suffering from a bad knee, and will be out of the game for at least a week. The department of a high class article of ball lately, and was one of the few substitutes sent into the Yale game.

Evans's shoulder seems to be no longer giving him any trouble, and Berkeley is entirely recovered from the slight injury he sustained early in the season. Berkeley has been doing some exceptionally good work kicking lately, and while Coach Wood has not dwelt particularly upon the kicking department of the game so far, it is likely that Berkeley will be developed along this line and given a chance to score by a drop kick, something that has not been done by a Virginia football player in some time.

One of the biggest finds of the season, it would appear at present, is Stillwell. Although he played back of the line at the University of Maryland, using him in the line, and he has been showing up to great satisfaction.

Ward, the big Kentuckian, seems to be making great strides towards a regular berth on the varsity.

AMUSEMENTS

Colonel-Gracey Scott Company in "The Warren of Virginia."
Charles Lucille, in "The Warren of Virginia."
Lyric-Popular vaudeville, matinee and night.

Bijou—"The Girls From the Follies" burlesque.
Superior-Pictures.

Melnyre and Heath in "The Ham Tree."
Those two inimitable negro impersonators, Melnyre and Heath, who have made hundreds of thousands laugh in their various musical comedies and vaudeville sketches, will return to the city at the Hotel Richmond on Wednesday night, with Wednesday matinee, in an elaborate revival of their most successful vehicle, "The Ham Tree."

John Cort, who presents the joint stars this season, announces that the company will be surrounded by a competent company and by "the world's best dancing chorus."

At the Other Theatres.
While the Academy of Music will be dark to-night, all the other theatres in town will be open, all offering new programs.

At the Colonial, Manager Newing presents the Gracey Scott Company in David Belasco's play, "The Warren of Virginia," in which George Riddell will have the most telling part, that of General Warren, created by that great character actor, Frank Kemm. In the production, Mr. Berthel will have his first opportunity of the season with this company.

Miss La Verne, for the first time during the season, will appear in the leading role, that of Aunt Mary, in "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary." It was in this play that Miss La Verne scored her most pronounced success in her season of 1913 at the Academy of Music, when her company was considerably inferior to that by which she is surrounded now.

The Lyric offers, as usual, two bills, both of which Manager Rex expects to be a success. The first, "The Ham Tree," will be followed by "The Girls From the Follies."

For the week's burlesque, Manager McKee, of the Bijou Theatre, offers "The Girls From the Follies."

MOB MAY ATTEMPT TO LYNCH MURDERER

Judge Hundley Informed of Possible Attack on Prince Edward County Jail.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
FARMVILLE, VA., October 11.—Considerable excitement was caused to-night by the report received through a telegram from a prominent citizen residing near the scene of the murder of a mob was formed to attack the Prince Edward jail for the purpose of releasing summarily for John Edmunds, the confessed murderer.

The telegram was addressed to Judge Hundley, or the sheriff. Judge Hundley has ordered a sufficient posse to surround the jail to-night and to-morrow night, and ordered the commander of the Farmville Guard to be in readiness for full protection to the prisoner.

Osteopaths Elect Officers.
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
LYNCHBURG, VA., October 11.—At the fall meeting of the Virginia Osteopathic Association, held yesterday at the Hotel Richmond, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: president, Dr. H. H. Bell, of Petersburg; vice-president, Dr. M. L. Richardson, of Norfolk; secretary, Dr. W. D. Bowen, of Richmond; treasurer, Dr. W. D. Bowen, of Richmond; executive committee, Dr. O. R. Semones, of Roanoke, and Dr. G. H. Patton, of Lynchburg. The next meeting will be held in Staunton in April.

STALLINGS PLANS TO WIN SERIES WITH TWO PITCHERS

Dick Rudolph Will Go Back To-Day—James Scheduled For To-Morrow.

(Continued From First Page.)

way Park, and before midnight it was estimated that there were 5,000 fans in line. All of them carried big packages of food that must serve them, not only for a midnight supper, but for breakfast and lunch as well. The gates will not open until 10 A. M., and, to prevent blowers from getting any of the unreserved seats, purchasers must pass into the park at once.

Over 15,000 unreserved $1 seats will be placed on sale for each game and 4,000 50-cent seats in addition. Boston's pride in its ball team, and its confidence that it will win the series was shown to-night by the betting offers of the Bostonians. Offers of 5 to 1 were made that the Braves will win the series, with few takers. The Philadelphia contingent came here more to cheer than to bet. The two dealers of the Athletics in Philadelphia were hard blowers from getting any of the unreserved seats, which has backed the Athletics at fairly long odds for the first game, and who doubted their offer on their team in the second game, hoping they would retrieve their early losses.

When the Braves arrived here this morning from Philadelphia, it seemed that the whole town was at the station to meet them.

Whole Town Welcomes Braves.
As the players stepped from the cars the crowd surged forward, breaking through the strong police cordon, and grabbed the players lifting many of them onto their shoulders and carrying them around, while the balance of the crowd paraded after them, cheering wildly. A big brass band hammered along, and the crowd was so dense that the players had to be carried. The crowd was so dense that the players had to be carried. The crowd was so dense that the players had to be carried.

The Athletics arrived on the same train as the Braves, but they were almost ignored by the crowd.

Every hotel in Boston is crowded to its limit to-night. It is estimated that there are at least 25,000 visitors in the city. Every one came with the idea of going to the games to-morrow and Tuesday. Of this army only about 1,000 or so have tickets. The others came to take the chance of getting in from speculators, or, failing in that, to be in line for the unreserved seats.

M'COMBS MAKES APPEAL
WASHINGTON, October 11.—William F. McCombs, chairman of the Democratic National Committee to-night issued the following appeal to the American people:

"The Democratic National Committee needs money to meet the necessary expenses of the present campaign. The splendid record of the President and his administration is a fact which no one can ignore. It is our manifest duty to do our best to place the facts clearly before the people to insure the return of a Democratic Congress. The cost of this campaign is a heavy one, and it is our duty to meet it. I therefore appeal most earnestly to all citizens who would uphold the principles of Democracy to send contributions immediately to Rollo Wells, treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, St. Louis."

CITY IS RAISING FUNDS FOR EPISCOPAL SCHOOL
(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)
LYNCHBURG, VA., October 11.—A movement has been launched here to purchase a site for the Episcopal school proposed to be established by the Episcopal Church for the education of boys in Lynchburg. The movement is being carried on by the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, which is located on the corner of Main and Second streets. The school is to be a day school, and will be open to all boys of the city. The site is to be purchased by the Episcopal Church, and the school is to be built on the site. The school is to be a day school, and will be open to all boys of the city.

Grayce Scott Colonial
Matinees, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 2:30. Every night, 8:30.
Miss Grayce Scott and Company in

The Warrens of Virginia
PRICES: 25c, 35c, 50c.

ACADEMY—Tue. & Wed.
Matinee Wednesday